WKU and Confucius Institute

- Defense spending legislation passed in 2018 prohibits institutions from hosting Confucius Institutes if they receive U.S. Department of Defense funding for Chinese language programs. Although many efforts have been made, WKU has been denied a waiver from the DOD that would allow WKU to operate both the CI and the Chinese Flagship Program.
- We have given notice to our partners to terminate the agreement between WKU and CI headquarters. Though activities will phase out over the next several weeks, we will continue our dialogue with key partners to work toward a solution that allows WKU to continue our programming. We hope to strengthen, deepen, and broaden our relationships with partner institutions in China throughout this process. We remain committed to ensuring each of the six graduate students currently enrolled in a WKU degree program have the opportunity to complete their degrees.
- WKU and our partners will look for ways to continue collaborating to support our school districts and to continue our pipeline for students and instructors from China.
